Green Voters Guide Available for the 2024 Primary Elections

Indiana — The non-partisan volunteer group “Voters for a Green Indiana” (VGI) has released its Green Voters Guide for the 2024 Primary election for Earth Day. The guide includes the contested Governor, Congressional, and US Senate races and some State House and State Senate races.

Voting Green is the most important thing to do for Earth Day. Elections provide a great opportunity when you have research on the candidates. To compile the guide, VGI researches candidates in select contested races and invites them to share their views about climate change and environmental sustainability.

Climate change is destroying homes, lives, and livelihoods across America. Extreme weather is increasing and threatens public safety, energy security, economic security, and food security in our communities. The Green Voters Guide is for Hoosiers, regardless of political party, who want to elect officials who will build more sustainable and resilient communities.

Indiana voters overwhelmingly support climate leadership. “To stop climate change from getting worse, our elected officials need to focus on transforming our energy from fossil fuels to renewable energy,” said Carmel volunteer Ron Rhoads. “The Green Voters Guide provides unbiased research to inform voters about candidates who are more likely to address this.”

The Green Voters Guide is available at VotersForAGreenIndiana.org.

About Voters for a Green Indiana: Voters for a Green Indiana is a non-partisan group of volunteers who take climate change seriously. Our goal is to inform voters about candidates who will support policies and actions to reduce carbon pollution to protect our communities.
